Wholesale Price List

FEBRUARY, 1922

ISSUED MONTHLY—Always refer to the price list for the current month, as this list cancels all previous quotations and is made on a strictly CASH BASIS.

NOT LESS THAN SIX OF ANY ONE VARIETY AT DOZEN RATES AND TWENTY-FIVE AT HUNDRED RATES. No charges made for packing or delivering to the express company. All goods travel at customer's risk, and any claim for damage should be made to the express Company upon receipt of goods.

These prices are made on a strictly "Cash with Order" basis, regardless of the responsibility of the customer.

We wish it to be distinctly understood that while we take every precaution to have all plants and bulbs true to name, we give no warranty, express or implied, as to description, quality, productiveness, or any other matter, of any of the plants or bulbs we send out, and will not in any way be responsible for the crop. Every order we receive will be executed on these conditions only, and they must be accepted by the customer when ordering.

FOR FULL DESCRIPTIONS REFER TO OUR REGULAR CATALOG, MAILED ON REQUEST.

FROSTED PLANTS

WHAT NOT TO DO AND WHAT TO DO.

Very often during the winter months plants are received in a frosted condition owing to a sudden or unforeseen drop in the temperature or from the exposure to extreme cold while in transit, on station platform or in delivery wagon, conditions over which the shipper has no control, for it makes no difference how well the boxes may be lined with paper, naturally the frost will penetrate in any object if exposed long enough.

When a shipment of plants is received in even a slightly frosted condition, they should not under any circumstances be handled or unpacked; if so, then disastrous effects must be expected.

Whereas, if properly treated, they can be saved almost without an exception. If when received the plants are frosted, even to the soil being frozen, the boxes should be opened and the paper loosened so that the air can penetrate, and then the boxes placed in a cool cellar, where the temperature is only slightly above the freezing point, and let remain there for at least 36 hours or longer, if necessary, until the frost is thoroughly drawn out, and then unpack and put in a slightly warmer temperature for a few hours, then very little damage to the stock, if any, will result from the frost.

Damaged Shipments

Every shipment should be accepted by the consignee, as the Interstate Commerce Commission has decided that every shipment becomes the property of the consignee as soon as it is delivered to a common carrier and receipted for, and that all claims for damages must originate from the delivering office, and that the carrier is responsible for all damages occurring to goods while in their possession by carelessness on the part of employer, or delay in delivering. Therefore, whenever goods are received in a damaged condition, either visible or concealed, the only proper thing to do is to accept the shipment with the notation on the receipt, "Received in a damaged condition subject to salvage." If possible, have a representative of the Express Company examine the goods at the proper time. Try to save everything possible, then present a bill for all damages and Express charges to the Agent. If this is done, there should be no trouble whatever in collecting claim.

AGERATUM-FRASERII

When we sent out Ageratum "Fraserii" last Spring with the recommendation that it would fill a long felt want among bedding plants by providing something dwarf that could be depended on to produce a continuous blue effect we had confidence that it would not disappoint. Its behavior during the last summer has proved satisfactory in every way. It is dwarf in habit, continuous in bloom, excellent both as a pot plant and a bedder.

BEGONIAS

Geraniums, from all the information we can get, will be short crop next Spring. As a good substitute for a pot plant for Spring sales or for bedding we would suggest Begonias. Easter coming, as it does, two weeks later than it did last year brings it well towards Spring when we may look for good weather, if so then bedding plants will be in demand and Begonias can be depended on to be in bloom. They can also be recomended as a house plant.

The Glorie de Chataline is cutting propogated. The Luminosa and Prima Donna are seed plants raised from Michell famous strain.

COLEUS

There is nothing that takes the place of good colored Coleus for bedding. They do well under anything like favorable conditions and can be used in many ways. The bright colored varieties are always in demand as pot plants, and for making up plant combination. They can often be used in place of a more expensive plant and serve the purpose just as well.
